Housing Design Guide: catalyst or obstacle to providing new homes for Londoners?

A special briefing event organised by the Association of Consultant Architects with the London Planning and Development Forum to examine the implications of the new guide and discuss affordable housing policy after the Election. The HCA's public consultation on housing design and sustainability closes on 17 June. This is your chance to understand the issues and respond.

Policy-makers and leading practitioners will examine how design, sustainability and affordable policies are impacting on the industry's ability to deliver new housing in for Londoners.

- The background to the new rules
- How the guide will work in practice
- The best ways to achieve consent under the new rules
- The CABA view
- The impact for developers, architects, and RSLs
- Practical advice for using the Housing Design Guide effectively
- How the guide will affect the provision of affordable housing
- The impact of the guide on innovative residential development models
